

Protecting Salmon Across the Pacific Rim

About Wild Salmon Center

The mission of Wild Salmon Center is to promote the conservation and sustainable use of wild salmon ecosystems across the Pacific Rim. We identify science-based solutions to sustain wild salmonids and the human communities and livelihoods that depend on them.

Wild Salmon Center's three-part strategy to secure the health of the strongest wild salmon populations:

Safeguard Habitat.
Landscape-scale legal protection, conservation and restoration of selected salmon strongholds in priority ecoregions, and best practices adopted by extractive industries.

Promote Sustainable Fisheries.
Best management practices adopted by fishing industry and fishery resource managers, hatchery impact on wild salmon minimized, and illegal fishing eliminated.

Build Leadership.
Local and regional coalitions of wild salmon champions educated, organized and effectively advocating for conservation and sustainable fisheries management.
